

Aichi Amemiya

Managing Director/Senior Economist, US Economic Research
Nomura Securities International, Inc.

Aichi Amemiya is the Senior Economist at the U.S. Economic Research at Nomura Securities New York since 2009.

Prior to his current role, he was the Economist at the Financial & Economic Research Center, Economic Research Department, Nomura responsible for analyzing economic fundamentals, and contributed to various research products. Aichi also provided research output to clients and making “Medium-Term Economic Outlook for the Japanese Economy” from 2004-2009.

Aichi worked at the Nomura Research Institute, Ltd. from 2001-2004 as an Economist at the Economic Research Department, analyzing economic cycles, economic fundamentals and making.

He holds a MBA from Waseda University; Graduate School of Finance, Accounting and Law, graduated summa cum laude, Emphasis in Finance and earned his Bachelor degree in Economics at The University of Tokyo.