

Mr. George Buckley

Chief European Economist
Nomura

George Buckley is Nomura's Chief European Economist. He has twenty years of experience as a market economist having previously worked for Deutsche Bank, London. George holds a PhD (housing market) and MSc from Bristol University, where he also taught macroeconomics and econometrics, and a BA from Bangor University – all in the field of Economics & Finance.

George is a published author (What You Need to Know About Economics, Capstone) and is Vice Chair of the Society of Professional Economists.