

David Seif

Managing Director
Chief Economist for Developed Markets
Nomura Securities International, Inc.

David Seif is Chief Economist for Developed Markets at Nomura, based in New York. He manages a global team of economists in developed markets with responsibility for economic forecasts and their market implications, as well as thematic research on the developed economies.

Before joining Nomura, David worked as the Chief of Global Economics at Brevan Howard Asset Management. Prior to Brevan Howard, he served in senior economist roles at Point72 Asset Management and Paulson & Co.

David holds a PhD and MA in Economics from Harvard University and a BS in Economics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.